

PREFACE

This constitutional law symposium is dedicated to Edward L. Barrett, Jr., Professor of Law Emeritus and Founding Dean of the University of California, Davis, King Hall School of Law.

In the past year, Dean Barrett retired from active teaching at U.C. Davis after a rich and varied career. Dean Barrett received his B.S. degree from Utah State University in 1938, and his J.D. from the University of California, Berkeley (Boalt Hall) in 1941, graduating first in his class. He was with the California Judicial Council and then served with the U.S. Navy from 1942-45. He joined the faculty at Boalt Hall in 1946, becoming Professor of Law in 1950. In 1957, he served for six months as Special Assistant to the Attorney General of the United States in Washington, D.C., assisting in the development of the Civil Rights Act of 1957. He was a Guggenheim Scholar in 1964.

Dean Barrett was Founding Dean of King Hall School of Law, University of California, Davis, serving in that capacity from 1964-71, at which time he returned to full-time teaching. No other person has contributed more to King Hall than Dean Barrett, one of our best-loved and most prominent professors.

This symposium begins with Professor Yale Kamisar's tribute to Dean Barrett's work as a scholar, focusing on his substantial contribution to the study of criminal procedure. Each of the following six articles includes a paragraph in the opening footnote expressing the author's appreciation of Dean Barrett. The U.C. Davis Law Review joins with these distinguished authors in honoring Dean Barrett as a truly outstanding scholar, dean, teacher, and individual.
