

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Table of Cases	xv
Table of Statutes	xvii
Foreward by Pierre R. Loiseau	xxiii
Introduction	xxviii

THE UNRUH ACT: A LEGISLATIVE HISTORY

I. Introduction	1
II. Adoption of the Unruh Act	2
A. Abuses Prior to Adoption	2
1. Disclosures	2
2. Blank Contracts	3
3. Finance Charges	4
4. Rebates of Finance Charges for Prepayment	4
5. Defenses and Claims of the Buyer	5
6. Delinquency and Collection Charges	6
7. Wage Attachments	6
8. Attorney Fees and Court Costs	7
9. Repossession Practices	7
B. Specific Provisions of the Act	8
1. Disclosures	8
2. Blank Contracts	11
3. Finance Charges	11
4. Rebates of Finance Charges for Prepayment	12
5. Defenses and Claims of the Buyer	13
6. Delinquency and Collection Charges	13
7. Wage Attachments	14
8. Attorney Fees and Court Costs	14
9. Repossession Practices	14
III. Amendments to the Act	16
A. Pre 1959	16
B. Post 1959	16
1. Disclosures	16
2. Blank Contracts	19
3. Finance Charges	20
4. Defenses and Claims of the Buyer	20
5. Wage Attachments	22
6. Attorney Fees and Court Costs	23
7. Repossession Practices	23
8. Venue Requirements	25
9. Referral Sales	27
10. Penalties	28
11. The Coverage of the Unruh Act	29
IV. Conclusion	31

THE ROLE OF CALIFORNIA'S ATTORNEY GENERAL
AND DISTRICT ATTORNEYS IN PROTECTING THE CONSUMER

I. Introduction	35
II. The Individual Action and the Class Action	37
A. The Individual Action	37
B. The Class Action	39
III. Public Action—the Attorney General and District Attorneys	43
A. Substantive Areas of Action	45
B. Available Remedies	49
1. Injunction	49
2. Civil Penalties	52
3. Criminal Prosecution	53
IV. Conclusion	53

ATTACHMENT AND GARNISHMENT IN CALIFORNIA—
IN NEED OF REFORM

I. Introduction	57
II. Sniadach , Attachment of Goods, and Due Process	59
A. The Sniadach Decision	59
B. Aftermath of Sniadach	63
C. Proposal	65
III. The Federal Garnishment Statute	69
A. Interpretation of the Act	71
B. Enforcement and Administration	73
IV. The Procedural Scheme in California	76
A. The Right to Exemption and the “Common Necessaries” Rule	77
B. The Statutory Procedure for Claiming an Exemption .	79
C. The Cost of Garnishment to the Debtor and the Employer	81
1. Multiple Levies	81
2. Cost to Employer	82
D. Notice and Summons	84
E. A General Proposal	87
V. Conclusion	88

CALIFORNIA'S AUTOMOBILE DEFICIENCY
JUDGMENT PROBLEM

I. Introduction	91
-----------------------	----

II.	The History and Practice of the Deficiency Judgment in California	92
A.	History	92
1.	At Common Law	92
2.	Inroads on the Common Law Rule - Statutory Regulation	94
a.	Uniform Conditional Sales Act	94
b.	California Automobile Sales Act and Rees- Levering Motor Vehicle Sales and Finance Act	95
c.	Uniform Commercial Code	95
3.	Turning Away from the Deficiency Judgment in Consumer Transactions	96
a.	Residential Real Property	96
b.	All Consumer Goods except Motor Vehicles ...	96
c.	Attempts to Abolish the Deficiency Judgment in the Sale of Motor Vehicles	97
B.	The Deficiency Judgment in Actual Practice	97
1.	Specific Provisions of the Rees-Levering Act	97
2.	A Hypothetical of the Deficiency Judgment in Practice	99
III.	Arguments For and Against the Deficiency Judgment	101
A.	Arguments Against	101
1.	Unfair to Consumers as Presently Abused	101
a.	Creditors' Abuses	101
b.	Bad Social Effects	104
(i)	Increased Number of Bankruptcies	105
(ii)	Increase in the Welfare Rolls	106
(iii)	Disrespect for Rule of Law Engendered ...	107
2.	An Unnecessary Device	107
B.	Argument For and Rebuttals	109
1.	The Deficiency Judgment as a Deterrent	109
a.	Deterrent to Default	109
b.	Deterrent to Damage	110
2.	The Deficiency Judgment Permits Wider Credit Availability	111
a.	Easier Credit Extension to Poor Credit Risks ..	111
b.	Lower Credit Costs to Good Credit Risks	112
c.	Stimulation of the Economy	113
3.	Protects Against High Depreciation Losses	114
IV.	Alternative Proposals to Eradicate the Problems Caused by the Deficiency Judgment	115
A.	Restrictions on Resale Procedure	115
1.	Notice Requirement	115
2.	Public Sale Requirement	116
B.	Restriction or Abolition of the Deficiency Judgment ..	117
1.	Restriction	117

a.	Deficiency Judgment Restricted by a Statutory Presumptive Resale Price	117
b.	Deficiency Judgment Restricted to Cases in which the Defaulting Buyer has paid Less Than a Certain Percentage of the Purchase Price . . .	119
c.	Deficiency Judgment Restricted to Cases in which the Automobile Sold for More Than a Certain Price	119
d.	Deficiency Judgment Restricted to the Sale of New Cars	120
2.	Abolition of the Deficiency Judgment	121
V.	Conclusion	121

CONSUMER CREDIT SALE DISCLOSURE IN CALIFORNIA

I.	Introduction	123
A.	The Three Acts—Unruh, Rees-Levering, and Truth-In-Lending	123
B.	Consumer Credit Sale Protection Laws in Perspective .	126
C.	Types of Provisions: Focus of Article	127
II.	Scope of the Acts	130
A.	Introduction	130
1.	Scope—the Initial Determination	130
2.	The Focus of This Part	130
3.	Truth in Lending’s Effect upon State Scope Provisions	131
B.	Basic Scope Overview	131
1.	The Truth in Lending Act	131
2.	The Unruh Act	132
3.	The Rees-Levering Act	133
C.	A Comparison of the Basic Scope Elements	137
1.	Extension of Credit	137
2.	Creditor, Retail Seller, Seller	137
3.	Consumer, Customer, Retail Buyer, Buyer	139
4.	Purpose for Obtaining the Subject of the Transaction	140
a.	Personal, Family, or Household Purposes	140
b.	Agricultural Business Purpose versus Non-Agricultural Business Purpose	140
5.	Imposition of Finance Charge or Payment in More Than Four Installments	141
6.	Presence of a Security Interest	143
7.	Basic Types of Transactions	143
D.	Statutorily Exempted Transactions	144
1.	Business or Commercial Purpose	144

2.	Limitation on the Amount Financed	145
3.	Certain Transactions in Securities or Commodities Accounts	145
4.	Certain Public Utility Transactions	145
5.	Additional California Exemptions	146
	a. Construction or Sale of Residential Housing; Sale of Real Property	146
	b. Services of Physicians and Dentists	147
E.	Summary of Scope	147
III.	Disclosure Requirements	148
A.	Introduction	148
	1. The Nature of TIL Disclosure Requirements	148
	2. Truth in Lending's Effect upon State Disclosure Requirements	148
	a. Inconsistent State Disclosure Requirements	149
	b. Inconsistency—The Problem of Double Disclosure	149
	c. Substantially Similar State Disclosure Requirements; Collateral State Disclosure Requirements	151
	3. Truth in Lending's Effect upon State Non- Disclosure Regulatory Provisions	152
	4. The Nature of California Disclosure Requirements	153
	5. The Focus of This Part	153
B.	Finance Charge	153
	1. Finance Charge Definitions and Categories of Charges	153
	a. The Truth-in-Lending Act	156
	b. The Unruh Act	156
	c. The Rees-Levering Act	157
	2. Charges Automatically Included in the Finance Charge—Charge in Goods or Services	157
	3. Charges Which Are Conditionally Included in the Finance Charge—The Special Problem of Insurance	159
	a. Credit Life Insurance	159
	b. Property or Liability Insurance	161
	c. Vendor's Single Interest Insurance	162
C.	Annual Percentage Rate Versus Add-On Rate	163
D.	Open End Credit Sale Disclosure	165
E.	Closed End Credit Sale Disclosure	167
	1. Disclosure of Numerical Items	167
	2. Add-on versus Rewrite	172
	a. The Fundamental Differences	172
	b. Add-on	173

(1) The Elements of the TIL Act Add-on Provision	173
(2) A Comparison of the TIL Act, Reg Z, and Unruh Act Add-on Provisions	175
c. The Reg Z Rewrite Provision	176
d. The Inconsistent Unruh Act Hybrid	177
IV. Conclusion	178

THE IMPACT OF TRUTH-IN-LENDING ON AUTOMOBILE FINANCING—AN EMPIRICAL STUDY

I. Introduction	179
II. Automobile Financing As A Transaction Suited To The Use of Meaningful Disclosure	181
A. The Nature of Particular Financing Transactions	181
1. Real Estate Transactions	181
2. Retail Sales and Open-End Credit Arrangements ..	182
3. Automobile Sales Transactions	182
B. Access to Names of Purchasers	183
III. The Sample	184
IV. Methodology	186
A. Use of a Structured Interview	186
B. Use of a Mailed Self-Administered Questionnaire	187
1. Type of Information Required	187
2. Precision of Hypotheses	187
3. Accessibility of Respondents	188
4. Type of Respondent	188
C. Method of Analysis	188
V. Analysis of Data	191
A. Characteristics of Respondents	191
1. Income	191
2. Education	192
3. Age	192
4. Purchasing Experience	193
5. Amount Financed	193
6. Place Financed	193
7. Conclusion	194
B. Awareness of the Annual Percentage Rate	195
1. Knowledge of Particular APR	196
2. Ability to Determine Annual Percentage Rates	197
3. Conclusion	197
C. The Un-Concerned Category	198
D. The Concerned Only With Monthly Payments Category	198
E. Compliance with the Act	199
1. Time and Writing Requirements	199

F. Summary—The Impact of Disclosure	202
VI. Conclusion	204

REGULATION Z, RESCISSION, AND REAL ESTATE

I. Credit Cost Disclosure	215
A. The Scope of Regulation Z	215
1. Real Estate Agents as Creditors	217
B. Specific Cost Disclosures	218
1. The Finance Charge	218
2. The Annual Percentage Rate	221
C. General Disclosure Requirements	222
1. Total Costs	225
2. Refinancing	225
3. Time of Disclosure	226
II. The Right to Rescind	228
A. Rescindable Transactions	229
1. The Security Interest Requirement	229
2. Refinancing	232
3. Notification	232
4. The Effect of Rescission	233
B. Statutory Liens	235
1. The Effect in California	235
2. Credit Card Transactions	237
III. Penalties for Non-Compliance	244
IV. Conclusion	245

THE EFFECT OF TRUTH IN LENDING ON AGRICULTURAL TRANSACTIONS

I. Scope of Coverage	247
II. Questioning the Inclusion of Agricultural Transactions	248
III. Reason for Inclusion of Agricultural Transactions	250
IV. Problems Arising From Coverage	251
V. Action Taken by the Board	254
VI. Conclusion—Exemption From Truth-In-Lending	257

THE ATTORNEY AS AN EXTENDER AND ARRANGER OF CREDIT

I. Introduction	261
II. Important Basic Concepts	262
A. Credit	262
B. Creditor	263

C. Arranger	263
D. Consumer Credit	265
III. Hypothetical Situations	267
A. Hypothetical I: More than 4 Installments	267
B. Hypothetical II: Repayment of a Judgment	269
C. Hypothetical III: Ordinary Course of Business	272
D. Hypothetical IV: Real Property Transactions	274
IV. Conclusion	276

DEBTORS' DILEMMA: STATUS OF THE SECURED
CREDITOR UNDER CHAPTER XIII OF THE BANKRUPTCY ACT

I. Introduction	277
II. Interpretation of the Secured Creditors Role in Chapter XIII	280
A. The "Strict Constructionist" View	280
B. The "Broad Constructionist" View	287
C. Consideration of the Conflicting Interpretations	295
III. Proposed Role of the Secured Creditor in Chapter XIII ..	297

NUMBER EIGHT AND STILL TRYING HARDER — AN ANALYSIS OF CHAPTER XIII IN SACRAMENTO

I. Introduction	301
II. Inadequacies of Straight Bankruptcy	302
III. Considerations For and Against the Use of Chapter XIII .	304
A. In Favor	304
B. Against	305
IV. The Sacramento Plan	306
A. Introduction	306
B. Pre-Plan Requirements	306
1. The Initial Screening	306
2. Filing the Petition	307
C. The Debtor's Plan	309
1. How Much and When	310
2. Who Makes the Payment	310
3. Provisions for Unsecured Creditors	311
4. Provision for Secured Creditors	312
5. Provisions Concerning Future Spending	313
D. Confirming the Plan	314
1. Notice Requirement	314
2. The Importance of Creditor Awareness	314
3. Obtaining Creditors Acceptance of the Plan	315
4. The First Meeting of the Creditors	317

E. After Confirmation	318
F. The Cost of Chapter XIII	320
V. Conclusion	322

BANK CREDIT CARDS AND THE USURY LAWS

I. Introduction	335
II. Usury—The General Rule and Recent Application to Credit Sales	336
III. The Bank Credit Card Transaction—A Loan or Forbearance?	341
A. A Loan?	341
B. A Forbearance of a Debt?	345
IV. National Banks and State Usury Laws	348
A. National Banks in States that Exempt Banks from Usury Statutes	352
V. Conclusion	354

THREE PARTY CREDIT CARD TRANSACTIONS: LEGAL RIGHTS AND DUTIES

I. Introduction: Commercial Reality Looking for a Viable Definition	357
II. The Credit Card Transaction	358
A. Focus: Three Party Credit Cards	358
B. Benefits Derived and Obligations Owed by the Three Parties	360
C. Conflicting Theories	361
III. Letters of Credit, Factoring and Credit Cards: Their Mechanics	361
A. Letters of Credit: Mechanics	361
B. Factoring: Mechanics	364
C. The Three Party Credit Card Transaction: Mechanics	366
IV. Letters of Credit, Factoring and Credit Card Transactions: Their Relationships	369
A. Letters of Credit and Credit Card Transactions Are Not the Same	369
B. Factoring and Credit Card Transactions Are Similar, But They Are Not the Same	371
V. Conclusion: A Hybrid of Commercial Realities Demands a Hybrid of Legal Theory	373

THE APPORTIONMENT OF CREDIT CARD FRAUD LOSS

I. Introduction	377
II. Cases Involving Credit Card Fraud	380
A. No Written Contract	381
B. Liability-Until-Surrender Clause	383
C. Liability-Until-Notice Clause	384
1. Strict Contract Approach	385
2. Liberal Approach	387
D. Summary of the Cases to Date	388
III. Existing Credit Card Fraud Legislation	389
IV. The Notice Clause	393
A. Functional Standpoint	394
B. Philosophical Standpoint	394
C. Legal Standpoint	395
V. Suggested Remedies to the Problem of Fraud Loss
Apportionment	397
VI. Conclusion	401

PROTECTING CONSUMERS FROM ARBITRARY, ERRONEOUS, AND MALICIOUS CREDIT INFORMATION

I. The Collection, Distribution, and Use of Credit
Information: A Source of Problems	403
II. Judicial Remedies	407
III. Legislative Remedies	410
IV. Conclusion	419

A FEDERAL USURY LAW — UNIFORMITY AT ANY RATE

I. Problems of the Present Diverse Usury Scheme	422
A. General Effects of Usury Statutes	422
B. Extent of Diversity in State Usury Laws	424
C. Conflict of Laws Problems	426
D. Some of the Economic Effects of Disconformity	428
II. Justification for State Control?	431
A. Opposition to the CCPA	431
B. Traditional Arguments for State Control	433
C. Inherent State Interest in Usury Laws	435
III. Justification for Federal Usury Law	436
A. Federal Responsibilities	437
B. Constitutional Grounds	439
IV. Conclusion	442